'The Finest Hours' seeks to film in Duxbury

BY SUSANNA SHEEHAN CLIPPER STAFF

Following on the heels of the Hollywood movie "Good Kids," which is currently filming in and around Duxbury, another motion picture has just applied for permission to shoot scenes in town. This week, a representative of the Disney movie "The Finest Hours" attended the Board of Selectmen's meeting seeking an event permit that would allow the movie to film at Duxbury Beach, on the Powder Point Bridge and at a house on the Gurnet in November.

Jeremy Fiske, assistant location manager, of NorEaster Productions, Inc., which represents the Walt Disney Company, said the film would be in town beginning Nov. 12 and would film scenes on Nov. 18 through Nov. 20. The movie company plans to leave Duxbury by Nov. 24.

'Good Kids' taking over Duxbury

BY GILLIAN SMITH, EDITOR

A cool September breeze blew across the bay-front home on King Caesar Road and vans and trucks turned a traditionally quiet neighborhood into a bustling avenue. The vehicles pulled in and out of the driveway of a red house with a large front yard that looks out on Duxbury Bay. Crew members unpacked director's chairs, extra props and necessary equipment for filming as the sun started lowering.

The cast and crew of "Good Kids," a Hollywood movie starring Ashley Judd, Zoey Deutch and Demian Bichir, has made Duxbury home over the last week, filming around town and taking advantage of the seasonal weather.

Last week, the crew was spotted at the house on King Caesar Road and at Farfar's on Friday morning. On Monday, the film crew was working on Duxbury Beach and at the Duxbury Free Library, where passersby spotted what looked like a graduation. The movie has South Shore ties, as writer/ director Chris McCoy is originally from Quincy.

The movie will continue filming this week.
